Maximal gravity

Given a point \( P \) in space, and given a piece of malleable material of constant density, how should you shape and place the material in order to create the largest possible gravitational field at \( P \)?