

Week 27 (3/17/03)

Relativistic cookies

Cookie dough (chocolate chip, of course) lies on a conveyor belt which moves along at speed v . A circular stamp stamps out cookies as the dough rushes by beneath it. When you buy these cookies in a store, what shape are they? That is, are they squashed in the direction of the belt, stretched in that direction, or circular?